COURSE DESCRIPTION:

The study of supply chain management involves the management of key business processes, the flow of goods and information, and relationships with fellow members of the supply chain. This course will introduce students to the terminology, concepts, and skills related to supply chain management. Students will develop an understanding of the complexities associated with the movement of goods and information, and how they affect the mission of the firm. Discussions will address the various processes and activities within an organization and how they interface with other members of the supply chain.

Learning Objectives:

Emphasis is placed on the systems approach, which calls for an understanding of trade-offs, in an effort to avoid sub-optimization in making decisions. Students will:

- Develop an understanding of the business processes that support supply chain and company objectives;
- Recognize the importance of supply chain structure and management components for effective supply chain management;
- Employ various analytical techniques used in solving supply chain-related problems;
- Learn and use the tools to identify constraints in the supply chain and how best to remove these constraints;
- Gain knowledge of how successful global supply chains operate; and

Instructional Methods:

The course involves a variety of instructional methods, including lecture and related discussion, workshops, student presentations, simulations, cases, and guest lectures.

Learning Materials:

Required Texts

Simulation

Students will engage in a competitive simulation game that replicates the development and management of a global supply chain. Student teams will compete head-to-head to see who can satisfy the demands of a global consumer electronics market in the most profitable manner. At the conclusion of the game, teams will present their game strategies and experiences.
Class Attendance:

Class attendance is compulsory for all sessions, including guest lectures and lab work. A non-attendance without a proper excuse (see: http://www.uky.edu/StudentAffairs/Code/part2.html) will result in a zero score for that specific activity. If you have to miss a class, it is your responsibility to turn in any assignment due prior to the class and find out what was covered and assigned.
