

Display Form from Workflow Problem

Here is a screen shot of the display form error people sometimes get when trying to view the form from workflow. In the smaller screen shot, the green arrow is pointing to the letter 'd' in the web address. Take the 'd' out and execute the display form button again – it should come up.

What's happening is that button sometimes defaults to the development (iwebd) server instead of the production (iweb) server sending the document to the wrong site.
