See note about registration in red below.

Purpose
To provide a quiet, supportive environment for students currently writing a dissertation or master's thesis.

Schedule and facilities
Participants are expected to commit to writing from 8:30 a.m. – 12:00 p.m. each day (Monday through Friday, May 16 - 27) and are encouraged to stay until the close of each day at 4:30 p.m. Writers will have access to a microwave, a refrigerator, and a common area for taking breaks. The work space is located on the first floor of Patterson Hall dormitory on north campus.

Essential items
Along with a reliable laptop, writers should bring whatever notes, books, etc. needed to accomplish writing goals. Also suggested are a water bottle and coffee mug for fill-ups throughout the day to minimize the use of disposable cups. (Be sure to pack your binky, your lucky rabbit's foot, the picture of your significant other - whatever keeps you calm and motivated to write. We're all friends here😊)

Cost
The registration fee for attending the summer boot camp is $25 (payable on the first day). The Graduate School will provide breakfast and snack foods each day, as well as lunch on the last day.

Registration
Due to large number of applications received in the first three days, online registration is closed. Please contact Dr. Morris Grubbs with inquiries at the email below.
