From UK's Zoom website:

The image shows a screenshot of the University of Kentucky Zoom login page. On the left side, there is a vertical strip of four images: a man and a woman in a meeting, a large stadium filled with people, a football field, and a group of people. To the right of this strip is the University of Kentucky logo and the text "University of Kentucky". Below the logo, it says "Sign in with your linkblue account". There are two input fields: the first contains the email address "jilutt1@uky.edu" and the second contains a masked password ".....". A red arrow points from the text "1. Sign in with linkblue ID & password" to the email field. Below the input fields is a blue "Sign in" button, which is highlighted with a blue box and a blue arrow pointing from the text "2. Click here". Below the button, it says "Please login with your linkblue account and password." and "Can't access your Account?". At the bottom, there is a "NOTICE" section with text regarding the University of Kentucky computer system and its use.
